2018 North American Dairy Sheep Symposium, Kansas City, Missouri, USA, November 8-11, 2018

Sponsorship opportunities

DSANA is happy to announce that the 25th Annual Dairy Sheep Symposium is to be held November 8-11, 2018 in Kansas City, Missouri! Our dairy sheep symposium is a well-established fall tradition for the entire continent's dairy sheep producers, held at different locations every year (Quebec, Madison, and Ithaca over the last three years, respectively) and attracting sheep producers from the Canadian Maritimes to Arizona, and from the Carolinas to the Pacific Northwest. The fantastic success that the Dairy Sheep Symposium enjoys would not be possible without two decades of generous support from businesses and organizations such as yours. Sponsorship contributions will allow DSANA to continue to bring in the best researchers and experts from North America and the world, and to present current information on dairy sheep management, nutrition, reproduction, and production.

This year's Symposium will feature four, ½-day presentation sessions focusing on Nutrition (morning and afternoon of November 8th), Economics (half day, November 9th), and Genetics and Reproduction (half day, November 9th); followed by a day of Farm Tours with a luncheon and annual general meeting at noon (November 10th); and finishing with an optional Cheese Workshop (November 11th). The presentation sessions reflect our changing industry, as more and more of our producers are utilizing imported frozen semen via laparoscopic AI, feeding rations formulated specifically for high-performance dairy animals, and choosing to process their own milk into cheese and other value-added products.

The Dairy Sheep Symposium is an annual event that attracts dairy sheep producers from throughout Canada and the US, and which provides a unique learning and networking experience for those who attend. Please consider making your contribution in the form of one of our sponsorship levels below:
